

Frequently Asked Questions

What can I expect before our session?

Once we have secured your date with a deposit, I suggest that we both start thinking of the image, the look, the feel, you want your session to convey. I have created a Pinterest board with session ideas and I encourage you to do the same. If you have a vision of what you want your session to embody, I would love to see your ideas so we can create the perfect session. Feel free to browse my portfolio for ideas!

What can I expect during our session?

It is my goal to make sure you are comfortable and relaxed. You can expect a fun, laid back atmosphere during our time together. My goal is to capture the real moments that make you and your family unique. I may occasionally instruct a “posed” shot, but for the most part your session will be just interacting with each other as if I wasn’t present. I will warn you, I am goofy – and I get overly excited about the tiniest things – a great shot, awesome lighting, or the sweet moments! I guarantee you won’t have a problem laughing and smiling – even though it may be AT me – we will have a fantastic time!

What happens after our session?

I usually post a sneak peek or two on my Facebook page – just to tease you of course – usually a few days after our session. Normal turn-around time is anywhere from two to three weeks. If your package comes with digital images, you are able to download these images directly to your computer from your gallery. You will receive a limited copyright release allowing you permission to use on social media, personal use, and for printing. Keep in mind you can order prints, albums, canvases, and other print products directly from your gallery as well. These are high quality professional products that are shipped directly to you.

What is your photographic style?

I like to think that my photographic style is more lifestyle based. This photojournalist approach can be used in all types of photography. It’s a way to document your shoot, a way to tailor the session to you and your family. It’s a way to showcase your story-whatever that may be- pregnancy, maternity, bridal, and boudoir. It’s a way for me to capture the moments that make you, well...you. It’s making sure you are happy, comfortable and having fun. It’s all about you. You choose the location, the theme, the look, the props; you create your story and I’ll share it with the world.
